

Jone Spouse Cheating

Summary

PREPARED FOR JANE DOE

Investigator Joe Sample, Case # 0000-000

Investigator Jane Sample

October 11, 2009- November 1, 2009

Do you know how important it is to include video and images in a report to clients?
Do you know that playable videos can be embedded into Adobe Acrobat Reader?
Do you realize that putting video on non-secure web sites and emailing reports can create violation of confidentiality of client?

SherlockDocs solves all these problems and saves you an hour or more with each report depending on how much time you waste dealing with grabbing video clips. And a single frame from a video has way less impact then a playable video.

One unique aspect of SherlockDocs is that your client will never receive an email with an attached report. We use a share function to send clients an invitation to create their own accounts. That way no one can see the report except for your clients. Email and snail mail are much too insecure. Cheating husbands can check the mail first or read an email. Use "share" to make sure only your clients can see the reports.

For cases like this you can use the data log type block to create a sequence of observations

04/01/2012 12:20 pm, Hotel California

Investigators Joe Sample and Jane Sample observed Mr. Example arrive at the hotel in a white convertible BMW M6 Virginia plate number "XXX XXX".

Cheating husband - captions are automatically attached to image

One of the most impactful means of convincing your clients is to use video. Actual footage showing body language with facial expressions carrys far more weight then narrative descriptions. You should also note that clips of 1-5 minutes are most effective. Viewers will lose interest if your video is too long

cheater kissing - here is a video we captured off a web page

Photos are also important in providing evidence to your clients. Color photos are much better than black and white. You can resize photos inside the app and move them left, right or center. And once you attach a caption it always stays with the image. Another way to use this tool is to capture a portion of your computer screen - a GPS report, something from a database, even a Facebook timeline

subject at hotel leaving car

Finally, we have a tool called "text snippets" This allows you to create your own library of phrases, names, places, lists, sentences or paragraphs that you use over and over again. Instead of retyping the text, just click on the text snippets box and insert the text with a click of a mouse.
